

Living Forest Institute's vision is to connect every member of the community to their local natural forests inspiring action and preservation. We believe that our remaining natural forests are integral components of the local communities in which they exist, and play an essential role in the well-being of the planet. We promote this belief through collaboration with environmental, indigenous, political, educational, artistic, cultural and other organizations to produce art and educational activities that develop stronger connections between community members and local natural forests.
